POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT: Carol Brantley Climate Justice Fellowship

Carol Brantley served on CCAN's board from January 2017 until her untimely passing in 2018. Her passion for public service and climate justice inspired our staff and board. She mentored and supported young leaders in the climate and social justice movements, including young Quakers, who created a team called Coolin' 4 Carol in her honor for CCAN's 2019 Polar Bear Plunge.

Carol was a deep thinker and regular meditator with a rich spiritual life. She lived a life of introspection, love, compassion, and loyalty. Her natural gift for connecting deeply touched a wide circle of lives—friends, family, clients, community—and left a formidable legacy. Carol embodied beauty and elegance with striking, memorable minimalism. She had known suffering and loss, leaving her compassionate and generous. She was widely respected, and we have been honored to know her and be warmed by her light.

CCAN's Climate Justice Fellowship program, funded by a generous grant from the Earth Rising Foundation, honors Carol's legacy by prioritizing young people of color looking for experience in the climate and environmental justice sectors.

About Us

Chesapeake Climate Action Network (CCAN) is the only group in the Chesapeake region of Maryland, Virginia, and Washington D.C. dedicated exclusively to building a powerful grassroots movement to fight climate change. We envision an equitable energy future where truly clean power sources — such as solar and wind — sustain every aspect of our lives and dirty fossil fuels are phased out. We strive to include principles of justice and equity in every policy we advocate for, with the knowledge that racial and social justice is foundational to climate justice.

Our team is working on bold campaigns to reduce emissions at a scale that matches the climate crisis the state is facing. For over a decade, we have been pushing the envelope of what's "politically possible," using every tool inside and outside the box – from organizing to lobbying to litigation.

About the Fellowship

We have three positions available, one each with our Virginia, Maryland, and Federal teams. The Fellowship is a part-time, semester-long opportunity to work on field organizing and grassroots power building. Current students in Virginia, Maryland, and Washington, D.C. are given priority consideration.

What You Will Do

Climate Change Issue Education and Advocacy

Working alongside our campaign teams, you'll learn how to advocate for climate solutions effectively, focusing on building grassroots power through organizing and mobilizing volunteers.

Research and Writing

Whether it's a policy briefing, a Facebook post, or an email to our members, you'll learn how to communicate effectively with diverse audiences.

Campaign Strategies

You'll participate in weekly meetings with your colleagues to learn how to plan campaigns, organize ambitious and impactful tactics, and evaluate successes and lessons learned.

Administrative Duties and Team Expectations

You'll be responsible for a weekly work plan, checking in with your manager to report your progress, and tracking your time and expenses.

Who you are:

- Passionate about solving climate change (familiarity with climate issues is a plus, but not required!).
- Committed to justice and amplifying the voices of those most impacted by fossil fuel extraction and the effects of climate change.
- Able to manage time, work independently, and ask for feedback and support when needed.
- Excited to collaborate with and learn from a team.
- A strong writer and researcher.

The Details

Fellows work 10-20 hours per week for ten weeks and are paid $20 per hour.

CCAN staff work a hybrid schedule: in the office two days per week and from home the rest of the week. The Maryland and Federal Fellows are based in our Takoma Park, MD office. The Virginia Fellow is based in our Fairfax office.

How to Apply

Please complete this Google form application by Sunday, March 10, 2024. You will be prompted to answer a series of short questions and asked to submit a resume and writing sample.
